The Beavers Declare His Glory.

The untutored mind has often a short way of taking hold of great truths which men of culture might cover. Here is an illustration touching the order of nature. A minister asked an old negro his reasons for believing in the existence of God. 'Sir,' said he, 'I has been heah goin' hard on fifty years. Ebery day since I hab been in dis world I see de sun rise in de east an' set in de west. De norf star stands where it did de first time I saw it; de seven stars an' Job's coffin keep on de same path in de sky an' neber turn out. It isn't so wid man's work. He makes clocks an' watches; dey may run well for a while, but dey get out ob fix an' dey stan' stock still. But de sun an' de moon an' stars keep on de same way all de while. De heabens declare de glory ob God.

It looks as though the problem of aerial navigation had been solved, after all. The telegraph informs us that lately, at Ottawa, a man named Clancy gave the exhibition of the working of an aerial ship, invented by him, which exhibition was virtually a success. He started from a church and sailed through the air, a distance of a quarter of a mile, and at an average height of twelve feet from the ground. The inventor claims he will be able soon to go pretty much where he pleases in his aerial craft, and does not care what becomes of the railroads and water-crafts.

An old gardener says, in the Detroit Tribune, that if, in cultivating onions, care is taken to draw away the earth gradually from the bulbs until they are quite uncovered, and only the fibrous roots are in the earth, you will never have scallions, but very large sound onions.

One bushel of muck around a young vine or tree, in clayey soil, will give better results than would be obtained if a man hoed and watered continually.

To kill a felon, keep the finger soaked in tincture of lobelia for twenty-four hours, or until the pain subsides. It will take out the infla-mation — Ex.
